PRAYER REQUESTS & UPDATES

- Cindy Miller needs prayer as she has an iron deficiency. Doctors had to cauterize her stomach, and she is now feeling extremely weak and tired. She is struggling to understand what the doctors are telling her, which adds to her anxiety. Cindy is asking for prayers to help calm her anxieties and for clearer communication from her doctors about her condition and a positive treatment plan. She also requests prayers for her safety to prevent any falls.
- Ervin Byler, a friend of bills, is being transferred to Cleveland clinic for further testing. His exact medical problem is unknown, please for him and his family.
- Mary's friend Rosemarie has stage 4 lung and brain cancer. Please pray for comfort.
- Mary has been filling up with fluid and is swelling. So the dr put her on a med called Lasix to help with that. Please pray that this medicine will work.
- Linda Fiscus stomach surgery tomorrow.
- Debra Miller is having some health issues.
- Kayla Luketic's grandpa passed away. Other family members have health issues.
- Lori Smith's friend had a biopsy and is asking for prayer.

PROMISED / NOT PROMISED

I remember Christmas disappointments. For example, receiving a baseball glove instead of goalie equipment, a toboggan instead of pool table. Do you remember yours?
Of course, the problem we have as children is that we are not clear on what was promised. With this in mind, I want to go over a short list of things we might be confused about when it comes to what God has promised us, versus what he has not promised.

PROMISED	DID NOT PROMISE
Always be with you (Hebrews 13:5)	It would be easy
Provide what you need (Matthew 6:31-33)	Provide what you want
Execute final justice (Romans 12:17-19)	Life would be fair
You will not be condemned (Romans 8:1)	You will not make mistakes
If you are in Christ, you will resurrect and live eternally (I Thessalonians 4:13-18)	You will not suffer and die

So, when Christmas comes around and we look forward to all the fun and joy of our time around the tree and then look forward to the New Year, let us remember that all the really good and precious gifts that are worth having, God has promised them to us already.
And when we are discouraged or disappointed in life or with God, it is usually over things He didn't promise us to begin with.
So what's the point?
Stay focused on the things actually promised by God; they are always the better things anyways!

Discussion Questions

1. Describe a disappointment of failed expectations in your past. How did you deal with it?
2. Which of God's promises fulfills your greatest expectation or need?
3. Has there ever been an expectation that you had which God did not promise? What was it? How did you deal with the fact that God had not promised this to you?

ἁλληλουιά

Part of Speech:

Hallelujah and its root word, “halal,” occurs dozens of times in the Psalms. It means simply “praise God!” In public worship it is frequently sung (e.g., “Hallelujah! What a Savior!”) and sometimes shouted. It is less often used in private times of prayer. But it doesn’t have to be excluded from your personal prayer life.
Try saying hallelujah anytime your soul swells with praise and thanks to God. Say hallelujah to express your appreciation for God’s beauty, faithfulness, power and presence.

If you pray the “Gloria/Glory Be,” you might even sometimes substitute the Hebrew equivalent for the English word “glory” or “praise.” (“Hallelujah to the Father, the Son, and the Holy Spirit,” etc.)
